ORDER OF DISMISSAL

LOUIS L. STANTON, United States District Judge:

Plaintiff brings this pro se action, for which the filing fees have been paid, alleging that Defendants violated his rights under 18 U.S.C. § 257.<sup>1</sup> The Court dismisses the action for the reasons set forth below, but grants Plaintiff thirty days' leave to replead.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

The Court has the authority to dismiss a complaint, even when the plaintiff has paid the filing fees, if it determines that the action is frivolous, Fitzgerald v. First E. Seventh Tenants Corp., 221 F.3d 362, 363-64 (2d Cir. 2000) (per curiam) (citing Pillay v. INS, 45 F.3d 14, 16-17 (2d Cir. 1995) (per curiam) (holding that Court of Appeals has inherent authority to dismiss frivolous appeal)), or that the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction, Ruhrgas AG v. Marathon Oil Co., 526 U.S. 574, 583 (1999). The Court is obliged, however, to construe pro se pleadings liberally, Harris v. Mills, 572 F.3d 66, 72 (2d Cir. 2009), and interpret them to raise the “strongest

<sup>1</sup> Plaintiff filed this action without the filing fees or a completed and signed request to proceed without payment of fees, that is, in forma pauperis (IFP). By order dated June 1, 2020, Chief Judge McMahon directed Plaintiff to pay the filing fees or submit a completed and signed IFP application within thirty days of the date of that order. Plaintiff paid the filing fees on June 11, 2020.

[claims] that they suggest,” Triestman v. Fed. Bureau of Prisons, 470 F.3d 471, 474-75 (2d Cir. 2006) (internal quotation marks and citations omitted) (emphasis in original).

The Supreme Court has held that under Rule 8, a complaint must include enough facts to state a claim for relief “that is plausible on its face.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). A claim is facially plausible if the plaintiff pleads enough factual detail to allow the court to draw the inference that the defendant is liable for the alleged misconduct. In reviewing the complaint, the court must accept all well-pleaded factual allegations as true. Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678-79 (2009). But it does not have to accept as true “[t]hreadbare recitals of the elements of a cause of action,” which are essentially just legal conclusions. Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555. After separating legal conclusions from well-pleaded factual allegations, the court must determine whether those facts make it plausible – not merely possible – that the pleader is entitled to relief. Id.

BACKGROUND

Plaintiff uses the Court’s general complaint form and invokes the Court’s federal question jurisdiction. The complaint, however, is not the model of clarity, and it is unclear what Plaintiff alleges that Defendants did or failed to do that violated Plaintiff’s rights. Plaintiff alleges Defendants submitted a false claim, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 287, that injured Plaintiff and his company. He names as Defendants Josephine Shea, an unspecified “John Doe,” and brandprotection.org.<sup>2</sup>

The following facts are taken from the complaint. On March 30, 2020, Defendant “filed a false patent infringement claim with Amazon.com on behalf of another entity.” (ECF No. 1, at 5)

<sup>2</sup> Plaintiff does not provide addresses or any other identifying information for Defendants. He also does not attribute specific actions or inactions to a particular Defendant in the body of his complaint, but instead attributes actions to “the Defendant.” (ECF No. 1, at 5)

Plaintiff conducted an “investigation” and found Defendant did not have authorization from that entity to “enforce any intellectual rights on their behalf.” (Id.) Defendant’s “malicious act . . . caused severe damage to our business in [the] form of lost sales, lost inventory, legal fees, as well as potential suspension of our Amazon.com seller account.” (Id.) Plaintiff seeks money damages.

DISCUSSION

A. Claims on behalf of NYHA Corp.

NYHA Corp. is also listed as a Plaintiff in the caption of the complaint, which is signed only by Plaintiff Gladyshev. Corporations, partnerships and limited liability companies may not appear without counsel. See Lattanzio v. COMTA, 481 F.3d 137 (2d Cir. 2007) (“[W]e hold that a sole member limited liability company must be represented by counsel to appear in federal court.”); Jones v. Niagara Frontier Transp. Auth., 722 F.2d 20, 22 (2d Cir. 1983) (noting that a corporation cannot proceed pro se). Moreover, as a pro se litigant, Plaintiff Gladyshev cannot act on behalf of another. See U.S. ex rel. Mergent Servs. v. Flaherty, 540 F.3d 89, 92 (2d Cir. 2008) (“[A]n individual who is not licensed as an attorney may not appear on another person’s behalf in the other’s cause.” (internal quotation marks and citation omitted)); Iannaccone v. Law, 142 F.3d 553, 558 (2d Cir. 1998) (“[B]ecause pro se means to appear for one’s self, a person may not appear on another person’s behalf in the other’s cause.”). Accordingly, Plaintiff Gladyshev may not appear pro se on behalf of NYHA Corp.

B. 18 U.S.C. § 287 and Rule 8 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure

Plaintiff asserts a violation of 18 U.S.C. § 287, a provision of the United States Criminal Code that criminalizes false claims presented to officers or agencies of the United States. However, individuals “cannot bring suits as private attorneys general in an effort to right potential violations of criminal statutes.” Wright v. Waterside Plaza LLC, 2008 WL 872281, at *2

(S.D.N.Y. Apr. 2, 2008) (citing Chrysler Corp. v. Ash, 441 U.S. 281, 316 (1979)). Therefore, Plaintiff cannot bring a claim under the criminal statute he cites because the statute does not provide a private right of action. See Muhammad v. Dep't of Navy, No. 14-CV-1290 SLT, 2014 WL 1330902, at *6 (E.D.N.Y. Apr. 1, 2014) (finding no private right of action under § 287). And the facts as alleged, even when construed liberally, are too bare to plausibly suggest any other claim for relief. Therefore, Plaintiff fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(2)(B)(ii).

C. Personal Jurisdiction

Even if Plaintiff did state claim for relief, it is not clear this Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendants. The plaintiff bears the burden of establishing jurisdiction and must make a prima facie showing that jurisdiction exists. See Jonas v. Estate of Leven, 116 F. Supp. 3d 314, 323 (S.D.N.Y. July 27, 2015) (citing Penguin Grp. (USA) Inc. v. Buddha, 609 F.3d 30, 34-35 (2d Cir. 2010)). “Such a showing entails making legally sufficient allegations of jurisdiction, including an averment of facts that, if credited[,] would suffice to establish jurisdiction over the defendant.” Id. at 35. The plaintiff must also “establish the court’s jurisdiction with respect to each claim asserted.” Sunward Elecs., Inc. v. McDonald, 362 F.3d 17, 24 (2d Cir. 2004).

“Federal courts ordinarily follow state law in determining the bounds of their jurisdiction over persons.” Walden v. Fiore, 571 U.S. 277, 283 (2014) (quoting Daimler AG v. Bauman, 571 U.S. 117, 125 (2014)). The Court therefore must look to New York law to evaluate whether it may exercise personal jurisdiction over Defendants.

Pursuant to N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 301, a defendant is subject to personal jurisdiction if he is domiciled in New York, served with process in New York, or continuously and systematically does business in New York. See Jonas, 116 F. Supp. 3d at 323. In addition, a defendant may be subject to New York’s long-arm statute, N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 302, if he engages in the following acts either in person or through an agent and such acts relate to an asserted claim: (1) transacts any business within the state or contracts anywhere to supply goods or services in the state; (2) commits a tortious act within the state; (3) commits a tortious act outside the state but injures a person or property in the state; or (4) owns, uses, or possesses any real property in the state. See N.Y. C.P.L.R. § 302(a).

Plaintiff does not allege facts sufficient for this Court to exercise personal jurisdiction over Defendants. He does not allege that Defendants are domiciled or are continuously and systematically doing business in New York. Moreover, Plaintiff states that the actions giving rise to his claim occurred in Seattle, Washington, and he does not allege his injury resulted from tortious action. He therefore fails to demonstrate that Defendants are subject to New York's long-arm statute.

D. Venue

It also does not appear that venue for Plaintiff's claims would be proper in this Court.

Under the general venue provision, a civil action may be brought in:

(1) a judicial district in which any defendant resides, if all defendants are residents of the State in which the district is located; (2) a judicial district in which a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claim occurred ...; or (3) if there is no district in which an action may otherwise be brought as provided in this section, any judicial district in which any defendant is subject to the court's personal jurisdiction with respect to such action.

28 U.S.C. § 1391(b). For venue purposes, a "natural person" resides in the district where the person is domiciled. § 1391(c)(1). And any other type of defendant resides "in any judicial district in which such defendant is subject to the court's personal jurisdiction with respect to the civil action in question." § 1391(c)(2).

Plaintiff asserts that the events that are the basis for his claim occurred in Seattle, Washington. (ECF No. 1, at 5) Plaintiff does not provide addresses for any Defendants and states that he resides in Kings County, which is in the Eastern District of New York. Because Plaintiff does not allege that he or Defendants reside in this District, and because he does not provide facts to suggest that a substantial part of the events underlying his claim arose in this District, even if Plaintiff were able to assert a viable claim, venue does not appear to be proper in this Court.

LEAVE TO REPLEAD

The Second Circuit has cautioned that district courts “should not dismiss [a pro se complaint] without granting leave to amend at least once when a liberal reading of the complaint gives any indication that a valid claim might be stated.” Cuoco v. Moritsugu, 222 F.3d 99, 112 (2d Cir. 2000) (quoting Gomez v. USAA Fed. Sav. Bank, 171 F.3d 794, 795 (2d Cir. 1999)). Because Plaintiff is proceeding pro se, and the nature and viability of his claim are not clear, the Court grants Plaintiff thirty days’ leave to replead to allege any facts stating a claim upon which relief may be granted.

In the event that Plaintiff chooses to file an amended complaint, he must demonstrate that venue is proper in this Court and that this Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendants. Additionally, Plaintiff must also tell this Court who violated his federally protected rights; what facts show that his federally protected rights were violated; when such violation occurred; where such violation occurred; and why Plaintiff is entitled to relief. Because Plaintiff’s amended complaint will completely replace, not supplement, the original complaint, any facts or claims that Plaintiff wishes to maintain must be included in the amended complaint.

CONCLUSION

The Clerk of Court is directed to mail a copy of this order to Plaintiff and note service on the docket.

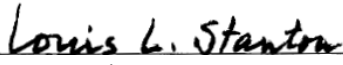

The Clerk of Court is instructed to hold this matter open on the docket until a civil judgment is entered.

If Plaintiff chooses to amend his complaint, he must submit the amended complaint to this Court's Pro Se Intake Unit within 30 days of the date of this order, caption the document as an "Amended Complaint," and label the document with docket number 20-CV-4085 (LLS). An Amended Complaint form is attached to this order.

If Plaintiff fails to submit an amended complaint within the time allowed and does not show good cause to excuse such failure, the Court will enter a civil judgment consistent with this order and direct the Clerk of Court to terminate this matter.

I. BASIS FOR JURISDICTION

Federal courts are courts of limited jurisdiction (limited power). Generally, only two types of cases can be heard in federal court: cases involving a federal question and cases involving diversity of citizenship of the parties. Under 28 U.S.C. § 1331, a case arising under the United States Constitution or federal laws or treaties is a federal question case. Under 28 U.S.C. § 1332, a case in which a citizen of one State sues a citizen of another State or nation, and the amount in controversy is more than $75,000, is a diversity case. In a diversity case, no defendant may be a citizen of the same State as any plaintiff.
